KEY HIPAA PRIVACY & SECURITY RULE CHANGES

Outside Service Providers

Your current contracts with outside service providers must contain the new “business associate” language making them a “covered entity.”

New Enforcement Rules

Unlike in the past, the enforcement of the HIPAA Privacy & Security regulations will be more strictly managed including:

- Enhanced regulatory oversight
- Empowered State Attorney Generals for all 50 States who will
 - Enforce new privacy & security rules
 - > Pursue legal action against employees and outside contractors for non compliance
 - > New penalty amounts, depending on intent, range from $25,000 to $1.5 million

Security Breach Notification Changes

With the new rules, a federal requirement for security breach notification has been created for the health care industry which now requires the following:

Reporting to the Federal Dept of Health & Human Services

- If more than 500 people are involved...
 - You must IMMEDIATELY report to the Federal Level Health & Human Services
 - HHS will post this breach to their website
 - Notifying media is required for more than 500 people in a state
 - All impacted entities or people contained within the impacted records must be notified

SHRED SERVICE = VULNERABILITY

Security Level

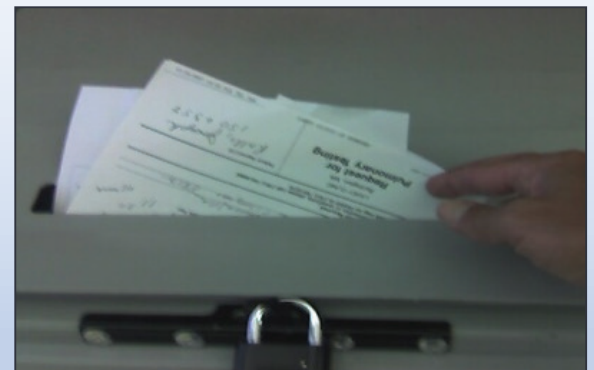

Most shred services use pierce & tear technology that simply rips into large pieces, creating an increased risk that key confidential information is still readable after destruction.

Handing Off Custody & Control

Does your provider do background checks & insure their employees? Did you know the most shred service technicians are not bonded and insured should a breach occur? Using a outside service provider to handle your confidential materials increases the risk of falling into the wrong hands and your liability. Is it worth taking the risk?

Document Retention

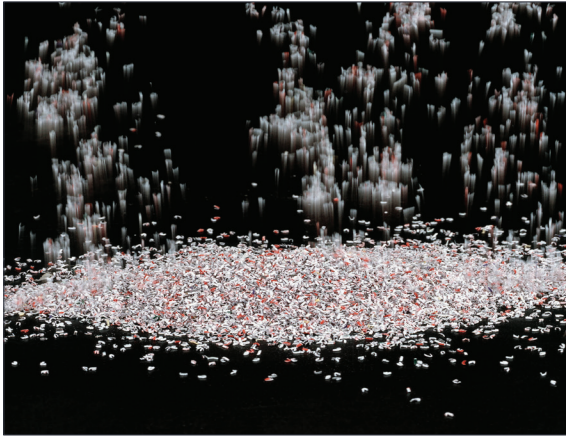

When using a shred service, documents are retained for extended periods of time in locking shred bins. As the bins fill up, documents are easily accessible as shown in this picture.

Actual picture taken inside a healthcare provider. Due to the large throat opening of the shred bin, documents can easily be retrieved and stolen!

HOW CAN HSM HELP?

HSM provides a superior document destruction program, reducing your costs by as much as 20-40% over your shred service provider while enhancing security and reducing labor costs.
